literacy work stations making centers work

As defined by Debbie Diller in her 2003 book, Literacy Work Stations: Making Centers Work (Stenhouse), “A literacy center work station is an area within the classroom where students work alone or interact with one another, using instructional materials to explore and expand their literacy.” However, sometimes it is hard to fathom how our students will behave, collaborate, and engage in critical and higher order thinking without our affirmation and guided scaffolding.

Literacy Centers for All Learners

A literacy center is a physical area (or station) designated for specific learning purposes. It is designed to provide appropriate materials to help students work independently or collaboratively (with partners or in small groups) to meet literacy goals. A literacy center can be portable, temporary or permanent.
